2	3/29/2019 12:08:51	Definitely	Yes	I was able to talk to people, some of them new to the state, about the opportunities found at state parks (this on top of spreading the word about state recycling capabilities)		I learned about some of the awesome programs working for a greener tomorrow that are happening at local levels in Connecticut. It was heartening to see how many there are, and the diverse range of topics they cover	improved signage - the style of banners on the walls looked great, but it was a bit tricky to read 'Information' from across the room when some letters had lower contrast than others
3	3/29/2019 12:09:24	Maybe	Yes	This is a yes & no. Yes - it was great to connect with the many vendors and organizations to learn about best practices in the zero waste community. We were able to talk to visiting teachers about how the themes of innovation and sustainability were taught to preschool age children in our classrooms.	No - there weren't as many families with young children that I had hoped to see.	As an organization, we have a long way to go with regards to being a zero waste facility. We hope that we can start in the ELLI classrooms and expand from there.	Not sure how to answer this one.	As of this time, I would not be able to give a definitive yes that we can participate in next year's fair. We will certainly keep it on our outreach calendar.
4	3/29/2019 12:22:00	Definitely	Yes	Goy a lot of business to repair jewelry after the event.		To be more specific on how I make my pieces by using recycled beads.	Nothing! It was great!
5	3/29/2019 12:30:57	Definitely	Yes	We were able to inform many residents from all different towns about our program, as well as make new contacts with schools and town officials. There are many residents that are now willing to go speak to their town officials and vouch for X.		I learned that there are many CT residents that want to do what they can to help sustainable businesses prosper in their communities.	There were a lot of people there, but it would be nice to see even more!
6	3/29/2019 12:40:20	Definitely	Yes	The X engaged with a good number of new people and re-connected with current supporters. We were pretty busy the entire time. And, a senior member of a local Trust stopped by for a substantial visit and made a commitment to help the X.		It's a good opportunity to reach the Xs target audience.	Keep building the attendance. It was way up this year. Good for you!
7	3/29/2019 12:57:09	Definitely	Yes	The museum got people interested in coming to the museum.		easy to be zero waste	coming to mind.	Great fair! :)
8	3/29/2019 13:53:58	Definitely	Yes	Spreading the word about our organization		Community interests, possible workshop topics for the farm	N/A
9	3/30/2019 8:20:20	Definitely	Yes	Increased awareness about our service.		There is increasing awareness around waste in our community.	Nothing
10	3/30/2019 12:06:45	Definitely	Yes	Got people to sign various petitions, enlightened folks about the various organizations which they were very happy to know about		You get folks from many different towns	it was great (again) as is
11	3/31/2019 13:35:20	Definitely	Yes	we introduced our brand to new customers and also sold items onste		don't bring as much inventory. More education around QR codes. Lots of people asked for brochure and and we did not bring any.	open show 1 hour earlier?	overall really good event. Thank you. Can't wait for next year.
12	3/31/2019 16:48:22	Maybe	Yes	I learned from the other exhibitors and made contacts which might become clients for enviromagic performances.		I was amazed at how many nature centers we have in CT! I also learned about a number of enterprising business owners making low/zero waste products, assisting with recycling & composting, creating a circular economy.	To be frank...I would love to receive some payment for ! I was happy to swap use of a table for shows this year, however. Also, some other who were closing up shop were hoping to recycle some items but found that the recycling/composting bins had already bin pulled.	Thanks! I see Wilton as a leader in pursuing a green society and enjoy working with and learning from all of you!
13	4/1/2019 10:09:35	Definitely	Yes	The opportunity to share our message with commuters as well as network with other sustainability-focused organizations		I learned about several legislative items to keep an eye on	Everything was great. I would just say the discussion zone conversations weren't all clearly announced which affected participation.

14	4/1/2019 12:52:49	Maybe	Yes	Information shared and people met.		I learned about sheep shearing!	More municipal and state recycling program presence.	Organizers were very pleasant and professional and pre-event instructions very clear. Thank you so much for allowing my participation at your event! Tricia Taylor
15	4/1/2019 13:56:39	Definitely	Yes	Exposure, connecting with other like-minded organizations, educating visitors about our mission.		Zero Waste is a process and we need to continue to make small progress in all areas each year.	Increase publicity to drive attendance.	More of the Junkluggers as they filled quickly.
16	4/1/2019 15:46:34	Maybe	Yes	potential new customers		Lots of great organizations	more people attending
17	4/10/2019 21:21:20	Definitely	Yes	By meeting, sharing , connecting with many good people that is doing great things in our community!	Back To Nature	community have people	specialty for kids , we	involved in this event, is
18	4/22/2019 11:57:39	Definitely	Yes	Public education		Where do I start?!	It was great	participate
19	4/22/2019 14:35:05	Definitely	Yes	Many people did not know about X glasses collection & the Art center - we thus had the chance to acquaint them with new info.		Just how many people were not aware of how they could do much better for environment.	Maybe more specific actions people could take in their daily lives - guidelines.	thanks to all those who did the hard to bring this to the public.
20	4/23/2019 9:33:35	Definitely	Yes	15 X members exhibited and were uniformly positive in their feedback. Guests were interested, engaged, asked a lot of questions and took action.		This movement has caught on and we should leverage the momentum by doing more events, asking people to take action regularly and get as many businesses and organizations involved as possible.	We had a really good audience, but I think we can get more people. How is the question. The PR was good and social too. Maybe social media ads? PR beyond Wilton media? The radio was good, but it's hard to tell their reach. This part is always challenging. I think asking people to take action at the event is a great way to get them interested. Xs collected 1,100 pounds of used textiles and The X collected 1.5 trucks worth of donations to recycle. What were the ewaste collection stats? I'm sure they were impressive too! Taking those actions actually solves the consumers' problems, so they are inspired and motivated to show up.	Great job organizing and thank you so much for all your hard work. It was a great success and if you want to do more, we're game as your Green Partner. I think people are struggling for solutions and giving them options regularly is important. They can find this information online, including on X.com and in our newsletters, but events have a big and lasting impact. You have good momentum. Carpe diem.
